Indicate beginning and completion of each subject/unit you will be teaching. Start with observations and then add one subject or area of responsibility and add another subject/unit/responsibility each week, leading to four weeks that are full time, usually around weeks 7-10. The edTPA should be completed prior to full time student teaching. Taper down the last couple of weeks as appropriate for ending units/subjects. Teacher candidates should also observe other strong teachers in the building, even different grade levels and subjects. This is often done in the final two weeks, but observing earlier can also be instructive.
